BIKE SECURITY MEANS GOOD LOCK AND CHAIN

In the Spring, a young thief's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of bikes.

The bicycle boom is blossoming this spring. Dozens of ecology and exercise minded students are pedeling their way to UNO each day and parking their bikes all over campus while they go off to class. So far, no stolen bicycles have been reported to campus security, but if the pattern of past performances prevails the two-wheel rustlers will be rounding up their unfair share of other peoples' property.

At Lincoln's campus, two bicycles a day have been reported stolen so far this spring. The hottest of the bicycles in the bike swipers' handbook is the lightweight 10-Speed racing bike. With the cost of these bicycles averaging between $100 and $140, their loss has created one of the major security problems on university campuses today.

Dr. Rex Engebretson, acting head of campus security, offered a few tips to cyclers who ride to UNO. He said that "a proper investment in chains and locks and parking them in the bicycle areas" is the most efficient protection against theft.

"A dollar saved on a chain could cost you your whole bike," Engebretson cautioned. Some of the chains and cables used to lock the bikes can be cut with ordinary hand pliers. Engebretson recommended plastic-covered case-hardened chains that require bolt-cutters to break.

The second defense Engebretson offered was to park the bikes only in areas established for bicycles. Presently bike racks are located east of Allwine Hall, east of the Student Center, and west of the Administration Building. "With limited security personnel, it's better if the bikes are in a concentrated area," he said.

Another problem would be solved if the bikes were all parked in the bike racks. With bikes chained all over campus to flag poles, fences, lamp poles, and stair railings, the incon-

Committee on Committees Formulates New Structure

By Anne Pretti

A group has been assembled to set up a new committee structure for UNO. These committees will serve primarily as advisory and investigative bodies which will report either directly to the Chancellor or to departmental heads about university policies.

Serving on the new committee on university committees are: Dean Lane; Dr. Barbara Brilhart, president of the faculty senate; Rick David; Mr. Brad Chapman, asst. dean of academic affairs; Dr. Bunson, College of Education; and Chancellor Ronald Roskens.

It is the aim of this committee to provide a more organized method of adopting university policies, and a more thorough investigative force to look into matters concerning new policies.

One area in which this committee would be particularly valuable is in assisting the department heads to work out budget plans for the school year. At present, it is the responsibility of each department head to develop a budget for his department and submit it for approval to the Chancellor.

With the new committee system, he will be able to appoint committee members to research particular areas which may need special funds. This would assist in developing a reasonable budget that would fit financial demands.

Also the new committees will provide an easier means of communication between students, faculty, and staff since members representing each group will sit on the advisory committees. They will be charged with the responsibility of reviewing, and recommending policies and procedures on matters regarding all aspects of student life within and outside the classroom, student rights, and student services. In other words they will have to make themselves available a good deal of the time.

At this time the membership of these committees is still under consideration. The ratio of students, faculty, and staff which will be needed to fill the seats on the committees has not been agreed upon, or where these members will be drawn from. Many ideas have been suggested, and are presently being considered.

Another area of discussion is the capacity in which the advisory boards would function in the process of adopting new policies. It has not yet been agreed upon whether or not the committee should submit its ideas to the departmental heads or directly to the Chancellor.

Brad Chapman says that he feels that advisory committees should first report to departmental heads, and allow department heads to report to the chancellor since they are the ones primarily responsible for submitting departmental policies for university approval.

Thus far, four areas have developed which would be affected by the new committee structure. These areas as outlined by Rusty Schwartz are; A University Athletics Committee, a University Library and Learning Resources Committee, a University Planning Committee, and a Council for Student Affairs with sub-committees representing each area of student concern such as housing, graduate students, and student services.

"There may be more in the future," said Rusty, "but these are the ones that have been developed so far."

An example of how these committee structures would operate was offered by Schwartz. In the area of University Hearing-Appeal System, students who wish to appeal administrative actions in matters of student discipline may appeal to a special student, faculty, and staff committee which would listen to the students' appeal as opposed to the present situation where a student must appeal directly to the university's Ombudsman who is just another administrative official.

In expressing the advantages of the new system, Schwartz feels there are at least two.

1. These committees would have broad representation since they would have members from three separate bodies, the students, the faculty, and the staff. This would help to define the committee's responsibilities, because each member would be responsible directly to his respective group.

2. The new system would allow more continuous review and recommendations for changes in programs pertaining to each committee's personal area. This would afford better opportunities for meeting both present and future needs, and in keeping the Chancellor informed in rising interests within university departments.

Mr. Chapman commented in much the same way, but warned, "The committees are not to act as decision-making boards, but strictly as advisory councils."

He expressed assurance that the committees would become effective no later than the upcoming fall.

Greek Week

Greek Week is half over, but the events roll on. The annual joint program of the Interfraternity Council and the Panhellenic Council will feature the Theta Chi Olympics tonight at 7:00 p.m. in the Fieldhouse. The rest of the week's activities follow:

- Wednesday, April 25
7:00 — Theta Chi Olympics — UNO Fieldhouse.
- Thursday, April 26
12:30 — Ping Pong Tournament — Student Center.
5:30 — Hot Dog Roast — Hill Haven, 8806 S. 36th.
- Friday, April 27
3:00 — Bike Race — Stadium.
8:00 — Outdoor Party — Knudsen's, 8708 S. 42nd.
- Saturday, April 28
9:00-12:00 — Dance — Student Center Ballroom — Group: Bittersweet — Admission: $1.00.
- Sunday, April 29
7:00 — Banquet — New Tower Motel — Scholastic and athletic awards will be made.

venience and danger of having to work around the bikes creates difficulties.

Director of Campus Construction, Don Peterson, said the chances of stumbling over an improperly parked bike are greatest near the south entrance to the library along the railing, and by the air conditioning units by the annexes. He said the bikes near the annexes could also result in a costly refrigerant line being ruptured.

Dr. Engbretson said it was "difficult to maintain the grounds" since mowing is supposed to be done close to the fences and lamp posts. He reported that there has "not yet been a great rash" of people bringing bicycles into the buildings where they could create fire hazards by obstructing doorways. Noting that there is hardly enough room for people, Engbretson said that "absolutely no vehicles" could be allowed inside buildings.

Although campus security is keeping an extra eye on the two-wheel lots, there isn't enough manpower to allow security to watch the bikes at all times. Since some thefts are reported only to the student's insurance company and not to the campus security, when it comes to budget time, security can't statistically support its need for an increase in men.

Mr. Peterson said "there's beginning to be more community support in reporting suspicious activity to help security." He said that people who look like they don't belong around the bicycles racks could be looking for an easy bike to steal.

These precautions go out to motorcycle riders. Since the riding season began, two motorcycles have been stolen from the UNO campus.

27 Senate Seats Filled

The Parker-Grady supported Student Senate slate sported a complete victory in the senate elections last week.

Of the 27 seats up, all 17 on what some termed the "bootstrapper slate" won. The only exception was Lou Hennies, whom the group supported as a write-in for the graduate class seat.

All constitutional amendments passed. Because of this, the two representatives elected from SPACS will have seats to fill. One amendment called for the addition of two senators from this school.

Another widely-circulated slate was the Greek slate, formulated by the Interfraternity Council. The majority on this sheet were winners, but it was largely a duplication of the other slate.

Election Mandate

Spring student elections are complete now. The gala atmosphere of active campaigning will not be missed. It never existed.

The student executive and the recently completed student senate elections were the most low key in the area of direct campaigning and student concern of the past few years.

The senate election saw the complete victory of the 17 individuals endorsed by president-elect Dave Parker. While the turnout for the senate elections was not a total disappointment, it was far from encouraging.

Within such a subdued campaign atmosphere, there was evidence that the slate candidates relied heavily on previously organized support instead of taking their candidacy directly to the whole student body.

Most of the newly elected senators did not bother to place posters or informational fliers within the grasp of the common student voter. Instead, the only literature circulated by most of these candidates was the mimeographed slate that offered nothing in the way of individual information about each candidate.

The editorial of last Wednesday urging the defeat of the boot slate had very little effect. Vote totals do not indicate that it appreciably increased the turnout of an independent opposition, nor did it significantly alter the turnout of the slate's supporters.

It was observed, however, that it did more to stir up the anger of the supporters than it did to promote the turnout of an opposition. Instead of the mathematical principal of a negative editorial times a negative situation to yield a positive result, the philosophical principal that "two wrongs don't make a right" was more the case.

In an election where a candidate receives a landslide proportion of a significant turnout, a mandate is claimed by that victorious candidate. While the presently completed election displays no landslide mandate, another type of command was expressed by the students.

The large percentage of students who did not make it to the polls, who did not know that there was an election in progress, and who did not feel informed about what Student Government is and how it is supposed to serve the student interest, have issued their own mandate to the newly elected senators. They've issued a mandate to make student government relevant and meaningful to the student body as a whole.

It will be nothing other than further digression if the present Student Government accepts exclusion of this large percentage of students from their representation. Even if the elections could be won without soliciting the vote of the entire student body, a much wider based support is necessary to secure the legitimacy that is required for a useful and functioning Student Government.

Trade Mark

Dear Sir:

The recent campaign and elections of the new student executives have brought on much mud-slinging, muck-raking, and character assassination, by all office-seekers and friends, with the exception of Mr. Haley and Mr. Whiting. This comment reflects neither a defense of nor an endorsement of either the Parkerites or Anit-Parkerites. It is designed to make one point very clear.

It is true that Mr. Parker and his mentors created an effective political machine, and it is also true that they won handily, though by no means did they receive a mandate. This is the method by which all political (elected) are filled. However, the similarity ends here.

Once elected, neither the winners nor the losers should engage in such petty, trivial accusations that followed both in this newspaper and private circulars. Instead, the winners should assume their positions with good sportsmanship and the losers should organize to assure themselves of victory in the next election. In short, both should avoid comment directed at the other.

Democracy and justice prevail in any organization where there is a healthy, vigorous party system. Although there now appears to be a power vacuum, it remains the duty of the losing party to reorganize and fight back. This is a trade mark of the American political system.

Enormous Chip

Editor, Gateway:

The self-righteous editorial which did indeed "smack of flagrant chauvinism" did very little if anything to advance the "boot" image and quite possibly set it back considerably. The pompous inference that Mr. Krafft (whoever the hell he is, by the way . . .) and his group (whoever the hell they are) are the answer to our heretofore unanswered prayers is ludicrous.

I choose to separate Mr. Krafft and whoever he represents from the general classification of "boots" because I know and like many "boots" who fortunately aren't nearly as self-impressed as he.

They don't truck about lauding each other and considering such obvious things as: I am " . . . really an outstanding individual in my 'chosen' profession." Really now, Mr. Krafft, is your omnipotence divine or did you accumulate it from pounds of Army Regs. and training manuals? Somehow I think you and Archie Bunker would make terrific drinking buddies.

This is not by any means a slam at fellow students — "boots" or otherwise — but rather an expression of disbelief. It is hard for me to believe that anyone could possibly be so all-knowing with such a severe case of tunnel vision.

Although I'm not a "boot" I know and like many of them, and don't think Mr. Krafft is truly representative of their best interests. I feel that he is burdened by an enormous chip on his shoulder which interferes with his communication with fellow students.

Continued

Editor, Gateway:

Apparently a space problem prevented you from printing my entire letter in the April 18 issue. However, the available space was well used as we enjoyed the well-written, non-biased, thoughtful editorial immensely.

Those bootstrappers must really be bad! I suppose that Parker's first order of business, upon taking office, will be to put out an order directing the execution of a couple of faculty members each morning before breakfast. We must remember My Lai and the fact that every member of the military was there and participated in the massacre.

I am re-submitting the last part of my letter of April 18 and trust that space will permit its publication.

The bootstrappers have learned a lot about the other students because of our association. We can understand now why there is unrest among college students about school policies. Who can go through the lizard drill called "registration" without being frustrated?

Where else can you see a 2 million dollar Performing Arts building erected by a school that can't afford to put pencil sharpeners in classrooms? And many of the frustrations could be eliminated by simply instituting an effective critique procedure and discarding the ineffective, Mickey Mouse form now in use.

Sincerely,
Carl L. Hess

Open House

There will be an open house tomorrow in the Oak Ridge mobile laboratory, temporarily located on the south side of the engineering building.

The open house will be conducted from 10:00 to 12:00 a.m. and was rescheduled from last Saturday. All students are encouraged to visit the lab.

Cheers

Tryouts for male cheerleaders will be held Saturday, May 5, in the Women's quonset hut.

Qualifications for those interested are: 1) attendance at two practices, 2) attendance at UNO for one semester, and 3) plans to enroll for the fall semester.

Practices will be held today and Friday in the women's quonset hut. There will be two final practices next Monday and Wednesday. All practices are from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m.

If students have any questions they should contact Sue Greguras at 731-9932 or Robin McNutt at 331-4257.

Taylor Talks

On Tuesday evening, May 1, at 7:30 there will be an Everywoman Forum with City Council Candidate Peg Taylor. The Forum will be held in MBSC 315.

There will also be a coffee for Ms. Taylor Tuesday morning from 10:30-11:00 at the University Religious Center at 101 N.

Happy Hollow Blvd. The public is invited.

Pork Bellies

The UNO Finance Club will hold a meeting this Friday, April 27, at 7:00 p.m. in the Opal Room of the Paxton Hotel.

Guest Speaker will be Dale Lorenzen, vice-president of Commodity Traders Company. All those interested in learning about the commodity market and their dates are welcome. Elections will be held at the close of the meeting.

City Candidates

Candidates for Omaha City Council and mayor will hear opinions from the voters during a Town Hall meeting at 7:00 p.m. tonight, in the Student Center Ballroom at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

The event is sponsored by the Student Program Organization, Young Democrats, Young Republicans and the Omaha Women's Political Caucus.

The public is invited.

Make-Up Math

Is your background in mathematics weak? Math 050, Remedial Mathematics, will be offered in the second summer session daily from 9:15 to 10:50. This is a non-credit course designed to bring you to a level capable of comprehending freshman mathematics courses such as Math 121 and Math 143.

Movement Ed

Dr. Joan S. Tillotson, Morrisonville, New York, will be presenting a lecture-demonstration, May 1, 1973 in the UNO fieldhouse, 11:30-1:30 p.m. Dr. Tillotson will be working with the elementary students during this lecture-demonstration.

Everyone is welcome to attend and find out what movement education is and how movement education activities can aid teachers and students.

Marathon

The UNO Biology Club is sponsoring its last recycling of the semester ... a recycling marathon ... from 12 noon Friday, April 27, until 5:00 p.m. Sunday, April 29.

So come out and wake us up in the middle of the night with a bag of tin cans, a parcel of newspapers, and those empty 6-packs of beer bottles. (Yes, that's right glass ... Omaha's Recycling Center has announced it will soon be accepting glass again.)

Remember, even though Earth Week has recently passed let's not forget to keep this world, this city, this campus a cleaner, healthier, happier place to live.

Woman's Honorary

Freshman women who have completed at least 15 hours in their first semester at UNO with a GPA of 3.5 or above are eligible for membership in the national freshman women's honorary, Alpha Lambda Delta.

If you meet the above qualifications and would like to join, please contact Mrs. James in the Office of Financial Aid and Student Employment. Adm. 240.

Home Ec Club

The Mother and Daughter Tea will be held next Thursday, April 26 at Commercial Savings and Loan Bank; 20th and Harney.

Those interested in helping on committees for the tea such as decorations, and refreshments should sign up immediately in Admin. 101.

The Nebraska Home Economics Association (NHEA) will hold its annual state convention next weekend, April 27 and 28 in Lincoln, Nebraska. Home Economics students who would like to attend the convention should register by mail or in Admin. 101, no later than 12 noon on April 25. This will be a very stimulating meeting and hope all will take advantage of this opportunity.

Bike Raffle

UNO Recreation and Parks Society are sponsoring a raffle in the MBSC Main Lobby. The winner of the raffle will select a bike of his choice from the Sport's Corner, located at the Westroads. The drawing will be held May 4, and the winner needn't be present to win.

Science Grants

The National Science Foundation, under their Research Applied to National Needs, has set May 17 as its deadline for its programs of Exploratory Technological Assessments in selected areas.

Parent Orientation A New Dimension

By Sherry Barnes

A comprehensive orientation program for new students at UNO will be supplemented by a Parent Orientation program. Twelve evening sessions for parents will run at the same time as the day-evening student orientation which will extend from July 8 thru mid-August.

Dr. James Chrysler, acting director of the program, and David Preister, student chairman, have devised a four part presentation which will be conducted mainly by students.

Essentially, the program will include an acquaintance with UNO in general, educational programs, services available to students on campus, UNO's relationship to the community, and its responsibilities to the State Legislature and Board of Regents.

The presentation will include introductory remarks by Chancellor Roskens, a multi-media program, discussion with Vice Chancellor Ronald Beer, and a session during which a student leader and an administration representative will field questions from parents.

The multi-media program is an instant tour of the campus which will include a description of the history of the university, the merger with the University of Nebraska system, and school activities both educational and recreational.

In an attempt to get away from past orientation programs in which all the participants were addressed in one large group session, "all the students are not going to be addressed simultaneously in a convocation type setting," commented Dave Preister. This year there will be a larger number of sessions and "groups will be small enough so that there can be interaction between students, administrators, and parents," Chrysler explained.

The groups will discuss extensively the transition from high school to college, problems students might encounter in the process, and methods by which these problems can be alleviated.

Moving Company Dances

The Moving Company (formerly Orchesis) at the University of Nebraska at Omaha will present its annual Spring Concert this Saturday, April 28, at 8:00 p.m., and Sunday, April 29, at 4 p.m.

The 24-member modern dance group will perform works choreographed both by the students themselves and professional choreographers. Included in the performance is a five-part dance choreographed by Dalienne Majors, a native Omahan currently working as a choreographer with the Hooliwhar Dance Company in New York City.

Ms. Majors, a graduate of Omaha Central High, received her B.F.A. in Dance from the Julliard School in New York City, and now teaches a body movement course there. In addition, she is on scholarship with the Martha Graham School in New York City.

The work composed by Ms. Majors, "Peony Park," consists of five sections — "Dodgem Cars," "The Scrambler," "The Ballroom," "The Carousel" and "The Pool." Ms. Majors describes the work as "a movement and sound collage of an amusement park."

depARTment notes

There will be a competitive showing and judging of the work of the Art Majors this afternoon, April 25th, in the UNO Art Gallery in Administration 371. Cash awards will be given to eight art students either for their studio work or for their progress in Art History.

There will also be a subsequent exhibit of the work of the winning studio students at the Gallery at the Market, 11th and Howard Streets, during the period, May 5th through May 13th.

Patrick Robbins, UNO Art Major (Junior level) was recently honored with a purchase prize of his entry, "A Trip You Won't Forget" in the Fourth Annual B.A.G. Competition at Madison, South Dakota. The Dakota State College, Madison, South Dakota purchased this for their permanent collection.

Robert Hower, Senior Art Major at UNO has been advised his entry "Boxed" to the Biennial Drawing Competition, Minnesota Museum of Art, St. Paul, Minnesota, has been purchased for their permanent collection and is to be sent on tour with other selected work from the exhibit for two years.

Schwartz Sees Potential in Student Government

Departing student body President Rusty Schwartz believes that the greatest potential for Student Government in the upcoming year "lies in its ability to establish a student cooperative association." Schwartz, who was recently defeated in his bid for a second term in office, said that the benefits which could be derived from such an association are numerous. "It (the student co-op) would aid Student Government in becoming financially independent and would benefit students by utilizing their collective economic influence."

The 26 year-old Business Administration major also expressed his belief that it is time for Student Government to direct its efforts towards positive goals. "In this respect," said Schwartz, "Dave Parker and Kris Grady have promised to work for increased (student) involvement and better communication, two very positive goals. . . . They should now be given the opportunity and support necessary to fulfill these objectives."

Although he does not expect Parker and Grady to get rubber stamp approval for all their proposals, he believes "that if the best interests of the student body are to be served — and I feel that this should be Student Government's primary concern — then it becomes vitally important for Student Government to be unified as the collective voice of the students at this university."

The departing president feels that the most important achievements of his administration are the implementation of a number of programs that Student Government has been working on for the last few years. He cited open drop and add, the revamping of registration procedures and the initiation of a study of the Student Health Service as specific items. He also mentioned the creation of an Academic Resource Center and a Veteran's Affairs Office as services established during his term of office "which will benefit all students in the years to come."

Schwartz said that he will continue his involvement in Student Government, but on a more limited basis. He plans to assist Dave Parker and Kris Grady "where they deem necessary" and hopes to lend a hand in the organization of a student co-op. In the meantime he is going to make-up two incompletes and "make the Dean's list the next two semesters."

Goodrich Program Contains Cross-Section

"This is a new day and educational opportunities are available. This is your chance to make up for lost time." Hubert E. Locke, dean of the School of Public Affairs and Community Services, ends his letter to prospective Goodrich Scholarship Program students with the above challenge.

The program is coming to the close of its first year after being initiated by Nebraska State Senator Glenn Goodrich and passed by the Unicameral last spring. Money was allocated for the funding of 50 additional, specially chosen students for the four years they would be attending the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Tuition and Fees Paid

The support package pays all tuition and fees and is primarily intended to "provide access to higher education for students from low-income backgrounds," according to the publicity pamphlet.

All applicants must first be residents of Nebraska and must either have graduated from high school or have passed the General Education Development test (GED). A student whose college standing is in advance of first semester freshman is ineligible for the program.

The program staff and recruiter screen applicants by considering numerous factors. High school grade patterns, rank in high school graduating class and accumulated grade point averages are factors. Individual maturity, personal references and motivation to succeed are also studied. Personal interviews and ACT or SAT test scores are required. The test scores, however, are not a crucial factor in the admissions process.

Obtain a Cross-section

According to Dr. Sharpe Lewis, program director, "we try to get a good cross-section of abilities and tutor them in areas where necessary for them to succeed."

After the students are selected, each is assigned to a counselor. These counselors have advanced college degrees and, for the most part, have had some teaching experience.

Students are required to meet with their counselors periodically and may meet with them more frequently if desirable to discuss progress and any problems that may arise. It is the counselor's responsibility to insure the survival capability of the program participants.

In addition they also meet with the students in small groups of 16-18 students for further classroom instruction. This year there are six counselor-instructors.

One-to-one Service

Graduate assistants are assigned to the counselors in order to facilitate the program's preoccupation with one-to-one service. They will work in the areas of academic and personal preparation such as using library resources, preparing term papers, English grammar and composition, and so forth.

The Goodrich curriculum centers around the three traditional divisions: the social sciences, humanities and the natural sciences. Each year, scholars of national renown will be recruited to teach the curricula planned. This year, Dr. Joseph Bettis was employed to teach the humanities sequence.

During the freshman and sophomore years, the three areas are stressed. Students receive 6 hours credit each semester for their studies and complement this with regular classroom courses in their planned area of specialty.

Guest Lecturers Invited

Additional visiting scholars are called in to guest lecture in the various areas. This year there were two instructors from Harvard, one from Yale, and several from Ohio University. Lewis said he "was impressed by their ability to present intense ideas in a relevant way to the students."

Junior and senior years bring specialized study for the Goodrich student.

During the third year, they will tackle independent contract assignments made with their counselor in specific areas where they are interested or would like to concentrate. They receive up to three hour credits per semester.

The fourth year consists of an integrated seminar that will "attempt to put the entire educational experience together," according to Lewis.

Yoga is Life Celebration

By Karen Dunahay

Brace yourself UNO. This weekend, April 27 & 28, a fascinating experience awaits any student intrigued with the mellow teachings of the East.

Billy Vest is a student of Yoga and a prime member of Y.O.R.E. (Yoga Organization for Research and Education). YORE consists of teachers and students who strive to make available the knowledge and practice of Yoga in modern society. They research the therapeutic aspects of Yoga concerning alcoholism, mental illness and drug abuse.

Billy Vest will offer a lecture and demonstration Friday April 27 at 8:00 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the new Performing Arts Building. A donation of $1 will be asked.

A workshop at the UNO Religious Center, Happy Hollow & Dodge, will be held on Saturday, April 28 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 553-5384. A $10 donation is requested.

A native Omahan, Billy Vest left for New York City six years ago. Playing in local Omaha bands as a drummer apparently wasn't enough. Billy wanted a richer taste of life. Yoga provided the outlet for him to manifest his learning and life experience.

Grant Masland, UNO Speech Department, clarified, "Billy is not playing the guru game. He's into the celebration of the whole creation; we're all meant to be here, we're all okay, we're all one." Billy is into Yoga as a transcendental experience, not as a way to lose weight, etc. Integrating Eastern with Western ideologies and feeling through the heart, not the mind, is also significant to his teachings.

Billy is one of the selected few students of Pir Vilayat Inayat Khan, head of the Sufi Order in Europe, and lecturer at Oxford University. Billy utilizes his knowledge of Yoga by working as a Yoga therapist for psychiatric patients at St. Joseph's Hospital in Patterson, N.J. He also works at a drug abuse agency and teaches classes in adult education in the New York City area.

Deregistration Is Achieved Many Ways

By Tom McCormick

Students with book fines, traffic tickets, and/or over-due tuition payments, who have completed their registration for the fall semester believing that they have escaped the deadly stop enrollment card are in for a surprise. The university has not lost track of your debts as you may have assumed.

Actually, technical failures delayed the filing of the stop enrollment cards with the permit-to enroll cards. As a result, few if any students with past due bills were stopped during the early sign up period.

Vice Chancellor Ronald Beer said that students who have outstanding fines will be notified by mail that these fines must be paid by June 25th. Failure to pay by that date will result in the student's deregistration. June 25th is also the deadline for payment of an initial $75.00 deposit on fall tuition. Failure to make that payment by that time will also result in deregistration.

Administration officials also wish to remind students that they must submit their special "tuition payment card," a new item in this year's registration process, at the time they make their initial tuition payment. If the card is lost, students should notify the cashier's office and make arrangements to have a new payment card issued. Failure to present the payment card could also result in deregistration.

Students should be aware of any other situations which could cause them to be deregistered. Last semester approximately 800 students were deregistered.

Mini-Semester for Women at C.U.

The fourth specially designed mini-semester for adult women will be held at Creighton University on May 7 through May 23.

Women enrolled in the program will earn three hours of college credit in less time and for less money than it takes a regular college student.

The Mini IV courses include American non-fictional prose, a survey of Afro-American history in this country, a look at Christianity and women and the challenge of crime in a free society.

The classes will meet Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Creighton will provide a free, day care center on campus for the pre-school children of the women in the program.

Two dutch treat luncheons with speeches on the subject of women have also been scheduled. Mary Kay Green, director of court services for Douglas County Juvenile Court, will talk on Wednesday, May 9. Dr. Anne Scheerer, dean of Creighton's summer session and special programs, will talk on Wednesday, May 16. Both luncheons will be at 12:30 p.m. in the Brandeis Student Center.

Tuition for adult women is $75 — less than half the usual tuition cost. A $20 registration fee is due now. Remainder of the tuition is due at registration on May 7.

The courses and their instructors:

American Non-Fictional Prose — Dr. Charles Stein, associate professor of English. An in depth study of changing American values as reflected in non-fictional prose ranging from the colonial writers to now.

Christianity and the Second Sex: The Role of the Woman in the Christian Movement — Dr. Bruce Malina, associate professor of theology. An inquiry into the models of women presented in the Christian movement from its origins to modern times.

Survey of Afro-American History in the United States — Mr. Ashton Welch, instructor in history. The significance of people of African heritage in the United States from the era of slave trade to now.

Law — The Challenge of Crime in a Free Society — Mr. Terry Anderson, assistant professor of law. This course will take a general view of the criminal justice system in America from the reference point of persons charged with crimes. It will also consider problems of crime control currently plaguing our society.

For more information on Mini IV contact Dr. Anne Scheerer, dean of the summer session and special programs, Creighton University, Omaha, Neb. 68131. Or call 536-2888.

Well, the baseball season is back in Omaha. With the opening of the Royals last Saturday night, one could say the official beginning of baseball in Omaha has occurred, although area college and high school teams have been going at it for over a month.

This year's edition of the Royals looks like possibly the best team the Kansas City organization has put in the city. Probably better than the first two years when the organization's team won the American Association pennant.

And, while some of the 9,617 opening night fans were lured through a promotion, it looks like maybe the Royals might be in for a season of decent-backing from the people of Omaha.

Alumni Saturday

Saturday night is the date for the annual Varsity-Alumni football game, the traditional close to spring drills.

The site will be the Westside High School Stadium, 87th and Pacific St., with a 8 p.m. kickoff.

The varsity-alumni set-up makes the Mavericks one of the few schools following such a plan. Most schools have gone to a inter-squad scrimmage to close their drills.

Playing against another, although, seems to lack some of the effect. Its like paying for one big scrimmage.

Speaking of paying, everyone could get in free if they wanted to. But a $1 donation for adults and a 50 cents children's fee is being asked, with all donations going to the UNO Maverick and Letterman's Club.

Peary Awards

The pre-game ceremony at the spring game is the awarding out of the Peary Awards, the mark of achievement given the most improved players over the spring.

Four awards are given, usually to an offensive back and lineman and a defensive back and lineman.

The UNO coaches vote on who gets the award and the vote for the top defensive lineman should perhaps be the toughest one to make as both Ted Sledge and Mickey Woodside are playing far better ball now than last fall.

Sledge has become a "complete" player during the drills. Last fall, coach Al Caniglia felt that while no one had more desire and possibly plain brute strength on the squad, Sledge's tactics of trying to out-muscle everyone left him at a disadvantage.

Woodside has risen from a little used reserve last fall into a possible starter at tackle.

Both have improved immensely. Maybe both should get the award.

Poldberg No-Hits Wesleyan

A no-hitter and another doubleheader loss to a major college squad highlighted the UNO baseball's team past week of action.

Warren Poldberg, a junior from Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson, twirled the no-hit effort in the second game of a doubleheader sweep of Nebraska Wesleyan last Friday.

Poldberg walked two, struck out two while allowing no Wesleyan runner past second base in a 1-0 pitching duel win over Dean DeBoer. The Mavericks had taken the opener with a 7-5 victory.

Saturday, though, the Mavericks found major-college Drake a little too much to handle as UNO lost a twin bill, 7-2 and 4-2, in Des Moines.

The Mavericks pounded out 13 hits in the doubleheader with the Bulldogs but failed to bunch their hits as they lowered their season mark to 13-12.

Poldberg faced only four extra batters as two walks and two errors resulted in the only Wesleyan baserunners.

DeBoer was equally effective, as only Jack Medick's RBI single in the first being the only hit of the game. DeBoer also walked two while striking out three.

He also hit leadoff batter Dave Ksiazek, which resulted in the only run of the contest. Ksiazek scored on Medick's hit, a slow roller that Jack beat out. The play at the plate failed to catch a sliding Ksiazek.

Rich Bernstein's two-run homer in the first game helped Rick Vuagniaux notch his fifth win of the year in relief.

Bernstein, who went four innings on the mound, allowing all the Wesleyan tallies, moved to center field in the fifth. His shot off Jack Ball broke a 5-5 tie.

The first-inning was a wide open scoring show as Bob Balke's grand-slam homer opened scoring off Bernstein. The blast gave the Plainsman a short-lived 4-0 lead.

In the bottom of the inning, Al Eckley clouted a three-run round-tripper. The Mavericks took a 5-4 lead with two runs in the second before the Plainsman tied it in the fifth with another counter.

Vuagniaux, now 5-2, gave up only one-hit in relief of Bernstein. He got six of the nine outs he needed via the strike out route.

Drake out-hit the Mavericks 16-13 and needed only the first inning of the first game to score enough runs to assure themselves of the split.

They tallied six times, five off UNO starter Gary Walker, who lasted just two outs. Neil Barna pitched the rest of the way.

Medick upped his team-leading home run total to five with a bases-empty shot. Ksiazek accounted for the other Maverick run with a single in the fourth.

The second game was shortened to six-innings because of a time limit on the use of the field in Des Moines. Drake scored two runs in the bottom of the fifth to pick up the win.

His battery mate, Don Clausen, picked up three hits in the second game and accounted for both Maverick runs.

Herold Third in Walk, Best UNO Finish at Kansas

Herold . . . finishes third.

By Dave Coulton

UNO trackmen hope to do better this weekend at the Drake Relays than at last week's Kansas Relays. The Drake Relays will take place this Friday and Saturday in Des Moines.

UNO suffered some disappointments at last weeks Kansas Show, the chief one being the failure of the national champion two mile relay team to place due to a dropped baton.

The mishap occurred during the second leg of the relay when Dave Micheels was bumped into jarring the baton loose from his grip, at the time UNO was running among the top three.

Coach Lloyd Cardwell said afterwards, "We would have finished among the top four, had the accident not occurred. No one feels worse about it than Dave (Micheels), it's just one of those things that happen.

Fort Hays State, who UNO has beaten and been beaten by this year, finished third at 7:35.3, just barely behind second place Oklahoma Christian who recorded the same time. Fourth place went to Nebraska Wesleyan, another UNO rival.

The best UNO performance of the meet was by walker Lance Herold who finished third in the one mile walk. Herold was topped by two of the walkers who placed ahead of him at the NAIA indoor meet, Auggie Hirt, of McPherson, Kansas and Paul Ide of Ft. Hays State.

Lance's time was 7:16.9, twelve seconds off Hirt's winning time of 7:04.4. Herold had placed sixth in the national meet and consistently placed well among tough competition.

UNO's sprint medley relay team placed seventh among eight finalists, beating out Ft. Hays State. Cardwell said "getting even into the finals in a meet like that is good."

UNO's mile relay team failed to qualify for the finals. The mile relay team was third in their heat with a time of 3:18.8, their best time of the year.

"We got into the wrong (preliminary) heat," said Cardwell. Cardwell pointed out some teams that made it into the finals did not post as good as times as UNO.

Even sixth place Northwest Missouri State time was a minute behind UNO's. The two qualifiers from UNO's heat placed third and fourth in the finals.
